WAPPP Annual Congress 2022
13-17 June 2022
Virtual Event

A large wind turbine is shown against a dark blue sky. The turbine's three blades are spread out, and its tower is visible. The overall scene is a low-angle shot, making the turbine appear tall and imposing.

CONCEPT NOTE

The theme of this year's Annual Congress is "PPPs after COP26". Following the Glasgow Climate Pact, countries have recognized the critical need to live within planetary boundaries and to urgently accelerate public and private sector financing to reach these goals. Continuing the "Next Level PPP" framing of last year's Annual Congress, this year's meeting will explore how to future-proof PPPs, and bring private and public sector stakeholders together towards one common goal of achieving more climate resilient infrastructure under the SDGs framework.

There is a global call for urgent action to build forward better. The links between climate change and sustainable development goals (SDGs) are strong. However, poor and developing countries will be the most adversely affected and least able to cope with anticipated social, economic, and natural shocks. As the impact of climate change has not surfaced as severely as that of Covid-19, governments are not acting as decisively on the interlinkages among growing social inequity, lack of access to essential infrastructure services and limitations of available resources to climate change as they should. However, it is not too late to build a robust system towards affordability, inclusiveness and resiliency in infrastructure.

Governments continue to face immense challenges. Governments all over the world find themselves already dealing with extensive challenges brought about by the Covid-19 pandemic, by the fast pace of technological change, by record-high national debt levels, and by the huge gap in financing needs for infrastructure. Bringing climate mitigation and adaptation to public infrastructure adds new layers of complexity, including climate-proofing and decarbonizing existing infrastructure, and developing future-proof models which will stand the test of climate change and limits on planetary boundaries.

Public-Private Partnerships (PPPs) are becoming more important than ever. Governments have limited resources to undertake such a sizable investment program. Facing all these challenges is nearly impossible without the public sector entering into partnerships with the private sector. However, risks posed by climate change and increasing ESG can lead to an exacerbation of existing problems that affect the basic tenet of PPPs-risk sharing and value-for-money. PPPs need to respond to the changing needs, limitations in the planetary resources, extreme weather events, physical climate risks, leapfrogging technological innovations and changing demography of our society.

OBJECTIVES

The Annual Congress will host international experts on the subject of “PPPs after COP26” from within the WAPPP global network of PPP practitioners, UN Organizations, Governments, global and bilateral Development Financial Institutions (DFIs) as well as investors, lenders, infrastructure companies, businesses, manufacturers and other “for impact” organizations.

1.

UNDERSTAND

how governments are future-proofing PPP policies and frameworks and how to accelerate the process.

2.

ELEVATE

the discussion on how we can adapt “post-COP26” PPP contracts to deliver efficacy, efficiency and competitiveness

3.

CONTRIBUTE

private sector perspectives on prioritizing impact in PPPs to ensure social inclusion, Just Transition, transparency and commercial profitability

THE TEAM

WORLD ASSOCIATION OF PPP UNITS & PROFESSIONALS

WAPPP is a Geneva-based, global, independent, non-governmental organization, with 40 PPP Units among its members.

We've grown into the largest global network of PPP units and PPP practitioners (corporate and individual, public and private) involved in the design and implementation of PPPs.

Key benefits of WAPPP include global collaboration, mentorship, networking and the promotion of best practices, advocacy for PPPs and the profession, and to help societies achieve the UN SDGs.

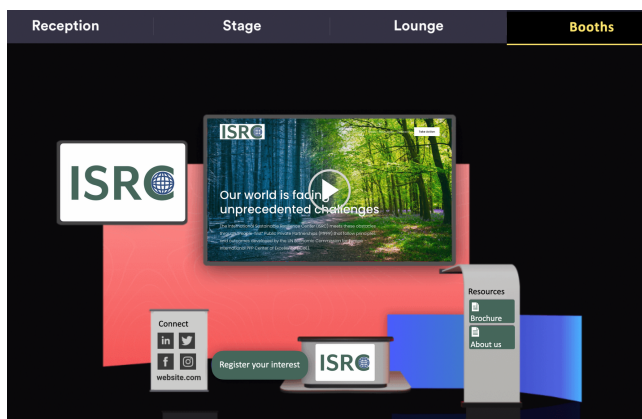

THE GLOBAL HOME OF PPP PROFESSIONALS

The WAPPP Annual Congress Week is dedicated to supporting the global growth and development of the Public Private Partnerships (PPP) industry.

VIRTUAL EXHIBITION

An interactive space where PPP suppliers share their Next Level PPP insights with newcomers eager to learn. Attendees can watch pre-recorded content, engage in a live video session and chat, or move the conversation to a private meeting. Confirmed exhibitors include ISRC, 4IP Group and APMG.

PPP UNITS PRESENTATION

On the third day, June 16th, PPP Units from all parts of the world will be presenting the plans and projects they are working on. Don't miss this extraordinary opportunity, especially if you are a financial or strategic investor looking to plan ahead.

FREE GENERAL ACCESS

In response to the current global crisis, we want to ensure maximum global accessibility to the summit. We will therefore offer FREE general access to the full WAPPP Annual Congress content. We don't want cost to be a factor preventing anyone from attending.
